

Paris, France - Academic Bulletin 2016-17

Introduction

The Academic Bulletin is the CSU International Programs (IP) “catalog” and provides academic information about the programs in Paris, France.

IP participants must read this publication in conjunction with the two listed below.

- Academic Planning, Crediting and Reporting. This publication contains information on academic planning, how courses get credited to your degree, and the academic reporting process including when to expect your academic report at the end of your year abroad.
- Academic Policies. This publication contains academic policies which will be applied to all IP participants. Topics include but are not limited to CSU Registration, Enrollment Requirements, Minimum/Maximum Unit Load in a Semester, Attendance, Examinations, Assignment of Grades, Grading Symbols, Credit/No Credit Option and Course Withdrawals.

To access the above publications, go to our website here and click on the year that pertains to your year abroad. For general information about the programs in Paris, refer to the IP website under “Programs”.

General Information

The International Programs is affiliated with Mission Interuniversitaire de Coordination des Échanges Franco-Américains (MICEFA), the academic exchange organization of the cooperating institutions of the Universities of Paris listed below.

Institut Catholique de Paris (ICP)	Université Paris 4 - Sorbonne
Institut Supérieur d'Electronique de Paris (ISEP)	Université Paris 6 - Pierre et Marie Curie
Université d'Evry Val d'Essonne	Université Paris - Diderot
Université de Cergy-Pontoise	Université Paris 8 - Vincennes - Saint Denis
Université de Versailles Saint-Quentin-en-Yvelines (UVSQ)	Université Paris 10 - Ouest Nanterre La Défense
Université Paris - Est Marne-La-Vallée (UPEM)	Université Paris - Sud (PSUD)
Université Paris 1 - Panthéon Sorbonne	Université Paris - Est Créteil (UPEC)
Université Paris 3 - Sorbonne Nouvelle	Université Paris 13 - Nord

All participants begin their studies with a one-week orientation and a three-week summer “Preparatory Language Program” (PLP) conducted by MICEFA. Following the orientation and PLP (from approximately mid-August to mid-September), students enroll in a course of study primarily within the regular departments of one of the institutions in the MICEFA network. In addition to regular university courses, students may take supplemental coursework designed for non-native speakers which is offered by MICEFA. The fall semester begins mid-September or early October depending on the campus and usually ends in late January. The spring semester usually begins in early February and concludes in May or early June.

Academic Culture

French students learn at a young age that the professor is there for them only during class time. Outside of that structure, the professor does not generally interact with students. Professors in France tend to be far less accessible than U.S. faculty members. Generally speaking there are no set office hours, and most of the time professors do not have an office on campus. Also, they occasionally cancel classes or change meeting times with no prior warning. Students are expected to take responsibility for pursuing their own learning during any breaks in regular class meetings. In general professors expect that students have learned how to study with little direction in the high school years, so that when they ask their students to “read” Chapter X for the next meeting, they actually mean for the students to “master the content of Chapter X” for next time. This might involve doing related exercises independently and/or performing extra research if not familiar with a term or concept.

Course Structure

There are two main types of courses within the French university system. One type, called cours magistral (CM), consists of a series of lectures held in amphithéâtres built for large audiences. The lectures present a broad theoretical analysis of major issues and trends in the given field. Often there are no syllabi, course readers, or published course notes available.

Although assigned homework is rare, professors do provide extensive bibliographies from which students are expected to select books to read. Students are usually not provided with a schedule of reading assignments. On the final exam, students may be asked to present a broad, conceptual analysis of a given question based on lectures and independent reading. Students must work to attain a comprehensive knowledge of the subject through a rigorous and judicious choice of reading materials.

A second type of course, the travaux dirigés (TD) is conducted in smaller groups and follows somewhat more closely the pedagogical pattern practiced in American universities. There is usually a contrôle continu structure, which means that your grade relies on different factors (attendance, participation, homework, and tests/exams) although professors usually do not show students how their grade is calculated.

Other types of courses include the laboratoires (laboratory), mainly for the Languages and Sciences, while at the graduate level the séminaire (research seminar) is the usual mode of instruction.

Generally, French courses meet once a week for one, one-and-a-half, or two hours, but there are many exceptions to the rule. CMs are usually supplemented by TDs. Year-long courses are still a tradition in some universities, although most are changing to a semester system. French courses often have a general title but the specific content, methodologies, and approach may vary from year to year. It is not unusual for a course to follow an irregular meeting schedule.

Course Levels

Typically, first-year, introductory courses taken at Paris institutions are considered lower division, and second- and third-year courses are considered upper division. M1 courses are advanced upper division and are considered equivalent to senior level-upper division courses with some exceptions.

University Libraries

Generally speaking, French university libraries are lightly staffed, have limited access hours, and are usually smaller than most American university libraries. Borrowing a book is not always easy, and students consistently report that borrowing books and the course registration process are two of the biggest challenges they face in the French system. This situation is also why French students often rely on public libraries. Paris offers wonderful city libraries where students may conduct research as well. Membership is free. To access a list of Parisian libraries, go to <http://www.paris.fr/bibliotheques>.

Sports

Sports classes are available at many of the University of Paris campuses; however, academic credit will not be offered unless they relate directly to the student’s academic program (for example, dance classes for dance majors). Sports course listings can be found in the S.U.A.P.S. department (Service Universitaire des Activités Physiques et Sportives). In most cases, participation in sports at a French university will require a nominal annual fee (approximately 35 euros) plus a recent doctor’s note in French (certificat médical) indicating that you do not have any health conditions affecting sports participation.

“Système D”

Students in French universities often rely on the “Système D,” which stands for “Débrouillardise,” a French national concept that basically means self-reliance and finding ways to solve or work out a problem in a clever, inventive way Building a network of friends who can help by sharing information with you or forming study groups is a good idea and is a definite component of “Système D.”

Assessment and Grading

Below is the grade conversion that is used to convert grades earned at any of the partner institutions in Paris to the CSU.

Paris Grade	CSU Grade
14 and above	A
13	A-
12	B+
11	B
10	B-
9	C+
8	C
7	C-
6	D+
5	D
4	D-
0-3	F

Normally, the professor awards the student a certain number out of 20 (i.e., 12/20). This number is not a percentage as it might be in the US where 75% is considered a C grade but rather it is more of a qualitative evaluation. So multiplying the number awarded by 5 to find the U.S. equivalent will not work at all. In the case given above, the 12/20 would become a 60% (a very poor grade) while it is in fact more than a passing grade. Content, level, reputation of the university and type of course can also factor in to "translating" a French grade back to the U.S. system.

Universities of Paris

While the Universities of Paris consist of separately administered institutions, MICEFA coordinates international exchange for the following member universities (and their specialties):

Institut Catholique de Paris (ICP)

<http://www.icp.fr>

Specialized in art history; history; literature; philosophy; religious studies. Courses also available in documentation; education; foreign languages; social sciences; translation.

Institut Supérieur d'Electronique de Paris (ISEP)

<http://en.isep.fr/>

Highly specialized engineering school with a focus on information technology, electronics, telecommunications and multimedia.

Université d'Evry Val d'Essonne

<http://www.univ-evry.fr/fr/index.html>

Specialized in Science and technology; engineering science; aeronautical engineering; electrical engineering; industrial engineering; mechanical engineering. Other courses include business, law and economics; chemistry; computer science; economics; foreign languages; history; hotel management; kinesiology and physical education; life sciences; mathematics; performing arts; physics; sociology.

Université de Cergy-Pontoise

www.u-cergy.fr/en/index.html

Specialized in communication; history; political science. Other courses include biology; business; chemistry; civil engineering; communication; computer science; earth sciences; economics; electrical engineering; foreign languages, civilization and literature; geography and urban planning; life sciences; mathematics; performing arts; physics; public administration.

Université de Versailles Saint-Quentin-en-Yvelines

<http://www.uvsq.fr/>

Specialized in business; literature; political science; sociology. Courses also available in art; biology; chemistry; computer science; earth sciences; economics; European and International Studies; foreign languages; French as a Foreign Language; geography and urban planning; health and medicine; history; kinesiology and physical education; life sciences; management; mathematics; music; musicology; physics; public administration; science and technology.

Université Paris - Est Marnes-La-Vallée (UPEM)

<http://www.u-pem.fr/>

Specialized in Science and technology; engineering; tourism and hospitality studies. Courses also available in business; chemistry; cinema and audiovisual; computer science; economics; fine arts; foreign languages, civilization and literature; French as a Foreign Language; geography and urban planning; history; kinesiology and physical education; mathematics; music/musicology; physics; social sciences; sociology.

Paris 1 - Panthéon - Sorbonne

<http://www.univ-paris1.fr/>

Specializations include European social & political studies; international relations; political science. Courses also available in archeology; art history; business administration and management; cinema and audiovisual studies; computer science; economics; fine arts; geography and urban planning; mathematics; philosophy; sociology.

Paris 3 - Sorbonne Nouvelle

<http://www.univ-paris3.fr/>

Specialized in cinema and audiovisual studies; French and other European languages, civilization and literature; linguistics. Courses also available in Arab studies; arts and cultural management; communication studies; history; international studies; performing arts.

Université Paris - Sorbonne

<http://www.paris-sorbonne.fr/>

Specialized in art history; French and other European languages, civilization and literature; history; music and musicology. Other courses include archaeology; classical studies; communication; geography; philosophy; sociology.

Paris 6 - Pierre et Marie Curie (UPMC)

<http://www.upmc.fr/>

Specializations include math, science and technology. Courses also available in biology; chemistry; computer science; earth sciences; electrical and mechanical engineering; mathematics; physics.

Université Paris Diderot

<http://www.univ-paris-diderot.fr/>

Specialized in Asian and European languages, civilization and literature; economics. Courses also available in chemistry; cinema; computer science; earth sciences; French as a Foreign Language (FLE); literature; geography; history; life sciences; linguistics; physics; psychology; sociology.

Paris 8 - Vincennes - Saint Denis

<http://www.univ-paris8.fr/>

Specialized in anthropology; art; cinema; sociology. Other courses include business administration; computer science; education; European and international studies; European languages, civilization and literature; French as a Foreign Language (FLE); history; linguistics; mathematics; music; musicology; performing arts; philosophy; photography; political science; psychology.

Paris 10 - Ouest Nanterre La Defense

<http://www.u-paris10.fr/>

Specializations include business; communication; political science. Courses also available in anthropology; art history; cinema; classical studies; economics; engineering; foreign languages; French as a Foreign Language (FLE); geography; history; kinesiology and physical education; literature; philosophy; psychology; public administration; sociology; theater.

Paris 11 - Sud (PSUD)

<http://www.u-psud.fr/>

Specialized in various fields of science. Courses available include biology; business; chemistry; computer science; economics; kinesiology and physical education; life sciences; mathematics; physics.

Paris 12 - Est Créteil (UPEC)

<http://www.u-pec.fr/>

Specializations include earth sciences; French as a Foreign Language (DELCIFE); international business. Courses also available in architecture; arts and cultural management; cinema and audiovisual studies; communication; computer science; economics; education; electrical, industrial and mechanical engineering; European languages, civilization and literature; geography; history; life sciences; mathematics; music; philosophy; physics; political science; public administration; science and technology; social sciences; sociology.

Paris 13 - Nord

<http://www.univ-paris13.fr/>

Specialized in electrical engineering; engineering science; mathematics; physics. Courses also available in biology; business; communication; computer science; economics; foreign languages and literature; French as a Foreign Language (FLE); geography and urban planning; history; political science; public administration; science and technology.

For additional information about the institutions, visit the MICEFA website at <http://micefa.org/>.

Paris 8 (FLE program) offers over two dozen different courses per semester. Students who plan to take a significant number of FLE courses over the course of the year should consider attending this campus. Paris 12 (DELCIFE program) also provides a wide variety of courses for international students. Paris 7 and Paris 10 also offer FLE programs, but with limited offerings and restricted access to their classes. Paris 4 offers SIAL (Service interuniversitaire d'apprentissage des langues) which is their French as a foreign language program accessible to students with a B1 level of above.

These French classes for non-native speakers are designed for students who need support with the French language while pursuing coursework either within the programs for international students or in the other departments of the university. During the fall semester, all students are strongly encouraged to take at least half their classes in these FLE/DELCIFE programs to ensure that they have received adequate linguistic and cultural preparation before enrolling in regular university classes. Students enrolling in courses outside of the DELCIFE and FLE programs are given no preferences or special treatment as international students.

During the academic year, students follow an appropriate course of study according to their competence in French language skills. Even the most advanced students should plan on taking a minimum of one intensive three-unit language class per semester. MICEFA also offers advanced language courses. Students with advanced language proficiency may enroll directly in courses at any of the cooperating Paris universities.

The renowned Sorbonne campus is a very tempting choice for students in search of prestige, but courses are very difficult and only outstanding advanced students will qualify, and only with approval of the CSU IP Resident Director. When making course selections students should seek advice primarily from the Resident Director, the MICEFA Student Affairs Coordinator/IP Program Assistant, and home CSU campus advisors.. As university courses change from year to year, pre-departure advising is difficult and it is recommended that students and advisors be flexible in course selections. Taking classes at more than one university simultaneously is not permitted. However, switching campuses from one semester to another may be considered on a case-by-case basis.

These levels in the French university system stem from a major and recent reform, called "LMD": Licence (Bac plus three years); Master (Bac plus five years), Doctorat (Bac plus eight years). The "Bac" is the Baccalauréat, the French high school degree. However, international comparative studies estimate that the student level after obtaining the Bac is equivalent to the completion of one or two years of American university. (Basically the material found in undergraduate G.E. courses in the U.S. has already been covered in the last two years of French national high school curriculum.) The level of American studies tends to catch up with the level of French studies at the Master level, and then surpass it. On the web pages of the various campuses of the University of Paris (cf. above), one also often sees the acronym UFR, which stands for Unité de Formation et de Recherche, the equivalent of a school or department in the U.S. French classes are divided into C.M. (Cours Magistraux, the equivalent of lectures) and T.D. (Travaux Dirigés, the equivalent of discussions), or T.P. (Travaux Pratiques, the equivalent of labs).

Summer and Academic Year Courses

Below is a listing of courses for the summer and academic year by MICEFA and various institutions in the MICEFA network. Academic year courses listed are courses which have been offered in the past and may not be offered every year. The year is divided into three terms: Summer, Fall and Spring. Additional courses may be offered during any particular year, and some previously announced courses may be deleted. For this reason, it is important for students to have some flexibility in their academic planning. CSU units are listed in parenthesis after the course title and are subject to change.

Course Coding for the Preparatory Language Program and MICEFA Courses:

100 - 199 lower division (intermediate level)
200 - 299 upper division (advanced level)

“Undergraduate” courses outside the programs for international students in French universities span three years and are arranged by levels: Licence 1, Licence 2, Licence 3 (L1, L2, and L3), Maîtrise 1 (M1) and 2 (M2) correspond to a senior level upper-division course for M1 and a “graduate” level course for M2. Students selecting from course offerings at the various Paris campuses should make sure they enroll at the appropriate level. It is important to note that courses at the Licence 3 level often assume two prior years of familiarity with the content. Courses at the Maîtrise level are generally very specialized. They usually include less lecture time, but more seminars. Students need to be more independent and ready to write a thesis.

For questions about course offerings, contact Leslie Greenhow at the MICEFA office at studentaffairs@micefa.org.

Preparatory Language Program

The PLP (Preparatory Language Program) offered by the MICEFA is designed to provide linguistic and cultural preparation for our students’ academic year in Paris. It concentrates on intensive linguistic review, with grammar, vocabulary, oral and writing practice. PLP has two levels: intermediate and advanced. Both classes meet four hours each day for three weeks. Students will be assigned to the appropriate level after taking an entry placement test shortly after their arrival.

As part of orientation, the MICEFA staff also organizes two cultural activities during the first week of arrival.

MIC 100–Intermediate French (4)

MIC 200–Advanced French (4)

MICEFA Courses

The following language courses are arranged by MICEFA for students from cooperating North American universities studying in Paris. All courses are taught in French, and are three units each.

LOWER DIVISION:

MIC 101 Intermediate French Grammar (3)

Intensive study of French grammar for international students at the intermediate level. Designed to improve both oral and written skills with emphasis on the latter. Subjects covered include proper use of tenses, verbs, prepositions and complex sentence construction.

MIC 102 Intermediate Oral Expression and Comprehension (3)

Intended for intermediate students who wish to improve their oral skills in French.

UPPER DIVISION:

MIC 201 Advanced Grammar and Text (3)

Intensive study of French grammar for international students at the advanced level. Designed to improve the understanding of French grammar. Various texts are used to teach how to write persuasively.

MIC 202 French Conversation (2)

The objective of this course is to place students in situations of daily French conversation. Spoken role-play based on professional situations will be emphasized.

Oral exercises will permit students to acquire confidence and ease in speaking.

MIC 203 Phonetics/Phonology of Oral Expression (3)

The course objective is to perfect the student’s pronunciation of the French language. Development of the student’s oral expression will be emphasized.

MIC 205 History of Paris (3)

History of the French capital from its founding to the present day. Course is organized around weekly lectures and visits to museums, monuments, and significant quarters of Paris and Ile-de-France. All major historical, artistic, and architectural periods and movements will be covered.

MIC 210 France Today (3)

This course examines contemporary France through different areas of society including: the educational system, French professional life, politics, economics, the family, and the role of France in the European Union and the world. Participation in field trips are required for this course.

MIC 212 Literary History of Paris (3)

Using historical events in Paris as a background, the course explores Paris through the eyes of major French writers – such as Balzac, Hugo, Flaubert, Zola, Proust and the Surrealists. The course includes visits of the neighborhoods evoked by writers such as: Montparnasse, St. Germain-des-Prés, Montmartre, etc.

MIC 213 French Literature and Politics in Paris (3)

This course will look at the history of French politics through the works of various authors of the 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries. The course covers texts from the different time periods and connect them with the political situation of the time. Authors include: Balzac, Victor Hugo, M. Barrès, Peguy, Drieu la Rochelle, Malraux, Albert Camus, and Jean-Paul Sartre.

MIC 214 French Society through Film (3)

Designed to develop linguistic competence by examining contemporary French culture through film. Selected videos and readings are accompanied by class discussion and written summaries.

MIC 216 Analysis of Cultural Differences: France and America (3)

The course studies how cultural differences manifest. Students will be asked to question the role of stereotypes, clichés and perceptions in our understanding of foreign cultures. The course focuses on the French and North American cultures.

MIC 217 Cross-Cultural Dialogue: Relations between the Arab World and both Europe and the United States (3)

This course analyzes the functioning of the Arab Gulf countries: Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Kuwait, Qatar, Bahrain and Oman as well as their relations with France. The course also provides students with the necessary skills for effective cross-cultural communication with the Arab World.

MIC 218 Writers of Paris (3)

This course combines the history of Paris and the world as seen through the works of 19th and 20th century French authors including Honoré de Balzac, Victor Hugo, Emile Zola, Maurice Barrès, Charles Baudelaire, Marcel Proust, les Surréalistes, Simone de Beauvoir and Jean-Paul Sartre. Students will study various texts and analyze their connection with political events and ideas of the period. The course includes three guided visits to 1) the Marais, with its aristocratic hôtels and salons, 2) Montparnasse, concentrating on the salon of Gertrude Stein, and 3) St. Germain-des-Prés, looking at the circle of Sartre and Beauvoir.

MIC 219 Literature, Cinema and History: France Facing the Great Crises of the 20th Century (3)

This course combines the history of Paris, France, and the world during times of crises as seen through the works of French artists from the 20th centuries. Students will study various texts and movies and analyze their connection with political events and ideas of the period. Authors and film directors to be studied include Céline, Camus, Goddard, Sartre, Duras, Eluard, Aragon, Tavernier, Rosi, Groupil, Klein, etc.

MIC 220 19th Century French Painting: Impressionism and Beyond (3)

Examines the evolution of painting in the 19th century that led to the innovations of the Impressionist painters, who assimilated and then transcended these innovations. Explores the importance of the post-Impressionist movement and how it opened the door for others such as Cézanne who, in turn, inaugurated 20th-century painting.

MIC 221 History of Art: Modernism from Picasso to Soulages (1901-1960) (3)

The dawn of the 20th century saw a radicalization in art. Bolstered by the “-ism” movements of the previous years (impressionism, symbolism, cloisonnism), artists no longer needed to represent the real world as it is observed and organized by the human eye. This opened the door for new forms of expression to take root, such as cubism, abstraction and surrealism. Students will explore these themes and history through lectures and museum visits.

MIC 222 Contemporary Urban Culture and Media in France (3)

This course approaches various problems that are linked to current events in France, but will also allow students to grasp an understanding of France, its inhabitants and its customs. Cultural visits are included in this course. Students will be expected to practice their oral skills along with dialogue and written work.

MIC 240 - The French and Media: Analysis of Gender through Texts and Images in French National Press (3)

The course will cover the relationship between the French and Media through gender by analyzing texts and images within the French National Press.

MIC 250 Gender Studies (3)

This course introduces students to French feminist thinkers of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries.

MIC 260 Academic Writing Workshop (2-3)

Students learn how to write French academic papers such as “dissertations,” “commentaires composés,” and textual analyses, required in French universities.

MIC 270 Business in France: Language and Culture (3)

This course is designed for students with an A2+/B1 level who wish to improve their written and oral competencies in French and are interested in communicating in French in a professional context.

MIC 295 Special Topics (1-3)

This course may be repeated for credit as topics change.

Institut Catholique de Paris Courses

Institut Catholique is a smaller campus with a variety of humanities-based courses in literature, history, translation, languages, etc. This campus is especially known for its strength in religious studies.

Paris 3 - Sorbonne Nouvelle Courses

The Nouvelle Sorbonne does not offer a program especially for international students. This university is more modern, yet almost as competitive as the famous Sorbonne (Paris 4) and also offers classes in Communication, Theater, and European studies (DESC). Students need to have a B1+/B2 level of French to attend this university. The following courses are examples of those taken by CSU students enrolled in the program.

Université Paris Diderot (Paris 7) - Courses

Distributed across several campuses around Paris, Paris 7 is a diverse university, with a strong emphasis in physical and medical sciences. Paris 7 also offers well-developed programs in Literatures, Languages and Social Sciences. The latter programs are mostly offered at the conveniently located Paris 7 campus, a small campus close to the Saint-Michel area in Paris. Paris 7 offers a small FLE program; students are restricted to two FLE courses per semester.

The main UFRs (Departments) at Paris 7 are:

UFR Lettres, Arts et Cinéma (LAC)
UFR de Sociologie et Sciences Sociales (SO)
UFR de Géographie, Histoire et Sciences de la Société (GHSS)

These main subject areas are subdivided into several specialties, such as:

- Lettres et Sciences Humaines (LSH)

Paris 8 - Vincennes-St Denis Courses

In addition to comprehensive humanities, social sciences and art programs, Paris 8 also has an extensive French program for international students that is more experimental and less structured than Nanterre. It is recommended to students who want to improve their knowledge of French with a more modern and less traditional approach.

Français pour Etudiants Etrangers (FLE) Program

The following courses are available through the Français Langue Etrangère (FLE) program. They may be taken either fall or spring semester. Some courses have the same titles, but are taught in different manners by different instructors. Others carry different French titles and are taught by different instructors but cover the same general material.

A- Unless otherwise indicated, the courses below are not differentiated by level.

8-FLE 201 Written and Oral Expression I (3)

Course especially designed to assist students requiring considerable help with the French language.

8-FLE 202 Improvement of Written and Oral Expression II (3)

Built around audiovisual materials and print articles concerning French civilization, this course focuses on comprehension of texts, note taking, efficient reading, and revision of lecture notes as well as improvement of oral expression through class presentations.

8-FLE 203 Oral Comprehension and Expression (3)

Instruction in oral comprehension using texts on French civilization as a point of departure.

8-FLE 204 French Grammar and Written Expression (3)

A grammatical review of difficult aspects of French grammar such as the use of articles, the expression of quantities, the use of past tenses and moods, etc. This course is recommended to students having reached an intermediate level of French.

8-FLE 205 Comprehension and Expression (3)

This course combines elements of phonetics, history of the French language, grammar, and interactive exercises.

B- The courses listed below are designed for students whose level of French is already advanced.

8-FLE 301 Written Expression (3)

This course is a writing workshop in which students learn how to refine their French writing skills through a variety of exercises as well as group interaction and oral expression.

8-FLE 302 Oral Expression (3)

In this speaking workshop, students learn how to refine their French oral expression through a variety of videotaped exercises, as well as group interaction.

8-FLE 303 Written and Oral Expression III (3)

Course seeks to develop both writing and speaking skills.

8-FLE 304 Writing Workshop (3)

In this workshop students are invited to develop their personal relationship to writing through group interaction.

8-FLE 305 Discourse and Research Methodology (3)

This course presents the methodology to use when writing documents or preparing oral presentations for French studies (résumés, fiches de lecture, exposés, mémoires). The goal is to identify and correct problems in written expression, and to learn to produce suitable documents for French university studies.

8-FLE 306 Textual Analysis (3)

This course analyzes certain recurrent difficulties in French texts. It focuses on grammar and syntax in written expression, and provides an analysis of complex sentences using linking words to describe the relationship between propositions.

8-FLE 307 The Grammar of Texts and the Sentence (3)

Study of the form and function of French discourse through examination of texts; group work.

8-FLE 308 Multicultural Francophone Experience (3)

Study of the French language and its multicultural heritage through various literary works from Francophone cultures, including their cultural contexts and unique vocabulary. Emphasis on the dynamics involved in cross-cultural communication and communication in general.

8-FLE 309 Multicultural Workshops: Practice in Communication (3)

This course allows students to become better integrated into university life and the French workplace by exposing them to different cultural codes. Small groups of foreign and French students work together on projects built around their interests. These projects must take concrete form and have an impact on their daily surroundings, such as the publication of a university newsletter—its coordination, printing and distribution. Students maintain journals recording their progress and difficulties.

8-FLE 310 Learning to Learn (3)

This course teaches strategies used for learning and teaching French as a Foreign Language.

8-FLE 311 Advanced French Grammar (3)

Advanced-level students review difficult grammatical points such as the role of punctuation, syntax in simple and complex sentences, prepositions, indirect discourse, the use of tenses and modes, and how to express the temporal relationships of events (simultaneous, anterior, and posterior).

8-FLE 312 The Literary Work: From Novel to Film (3)

Through excerpts of French novels made into films (such as Mme Bovary by Flaubert, The Kid from Chaâba by Begag, Sugar Cane Alley by Zobel, and The Red and the Black by Stendhal), students explore the transposition from text to image. Assignments include writing mini-scenarios based on literary excerpts and describing scenes based on film clips.

8-FLE 314 Civilization I: Language and French Civilization through the Press (3)

Exploration of the evolution of French language and society through French and Francophone written media such as daily newspapers, magazines, various publications, the regional press, satiric press, and web sites.

8-FLE 315 Civilization II: Language and French Civilization through Audio-visual Media (3)

Exploration of the evolution of French language and society through French and Francophone audio-visual media such as radio, television, the web, ads, YouTube, dailymotion developed around a particular topic.

8-FLE 316 Argumentation (3)

This course teaches non-native French speakers the techniques of written argumentation, such as paragraph construction for argumentation, improving the logical links between ideas, and retaining the reader's attention.

8-FLE 317 How to Organize Academic Writing (3)

This course will encourage students to prepare for university writing techniques.

8-FLE 319 Phonetics and Phonology (3)

Paris10 - Ouest Nanterre La Défense - Courses

Nanterre is the largest Parisian campus and offers a wide variety of courses. It has a wonderful student sports facility and library. Students attending Nanterre should have a comfortable level of French, high-intermediate to advanced level, in order to succeed in their studies. Students are encouraged to integrate into French university courses while taking a limited number of French language courses for support. Most courses at Nanterre are 2 units each. Therefore, the student should discuss in advance with their advisor how units can be combined or redistributed in order to meet their degree requirements.

Departments

Course offerings are listed by departments and by level. These courses are intended for French students and for international students with sufficient language skills to succeed. Most CSU IP students who enroll in these courses are at Niveau 3 or higher.
