

Academic Bulletin for China

2018-19 and 2019-20

Introduction

The Academic Bulletin is the CSU International Programs (IP) “catalog” and provides academic information about the program in China. This document supersedes the previous bulletin.

CSU IP participants must read this publication in conjunction with the Academic Guide for CSU IP Participants (also known the “Academic Guide”). The Academic Guide contains academic policies which will be applied to all IP participants while abroad. Topics include but are not limited to CSU Registration, Enrollment Requirements, Minimum/Maximum Unit Load in a Semester, Attendance, Examinations, Assignment of Grades, Grading Symbols, Credit/No Credit Option, Course Withdrawals and other policies. The Academic Guide also contains information on academic planning, how courses get credited to your degree, and the academic reporting process including when to expect your academic report at the end of your year abroad.

To access the Academic Guide, go to our website here and click on the year that pertains to your year abroad. For general information about the China Program, refer to the CSU IP website under “Programs”.

Academic Program Information

CSU IP in China is affiliated with Peking University (PKU) in Beijing.

The academic year at PKU is divided into two semesters. Fall semester begins in early September and ends in mid-to-late January. Spring semester runs from mid-February to the end of June. The end date for fall and the start date for spring vary each year based on the winter break around the lunar Chinese New Year.

CSU IP students spend most of their time in the School of Chinese as a Second Language (known as “SCSL”, “Hanyuxueyuan” or “HYXY”) located in its own new building near the south gate of the campus.

All students who study at SCSL must complete the online self-assessment. Details of the assessment are included in the admission packets before they arrive to PKU. After arriving at PKU, students meet with SCSL instructors according to their scheduled times to confirm language levels and courses. Then students are placed into broad categories of elementary (beginning), intermediate and advanced language levels, which are further divided into several sub-levels of classes based on the textbooks used in classes. Intermediate and advanced Chinese language students can select electives online, which usually start at the second week.

Elementary (beginning) Chinese students: Students placed at this level take two required courses for a total of 20 units in a semester. Students receive 20 hours per week of intensive language instruction which emphasizes grammar, reading, speaking and listening. They are not allowed to take electives.

Intermediate and advanced Chinese language students: Intermediate students are required to take 14 hours of Chinese language courses per week, and advanced students are required to take 12 hours of Chinese language courses per week. Required courses include a reading and writing course, and a speaking course. To supplement their Chinese language courses, students may take special topic courses and electives where writing is emphasized. Elective courses taught in English from the “On China Series” and other departments may also be available (not to exceed six units per semester). Special programs that require separate admission and fees are not available to CSU IP students. Students normally take 14 to 18 units each semester, and are cautioned from taking more units due to the heavy workload involved.

Advanced Chinese language students may be permitted to take regular university courses taught in Chinese and/or English, subject to approval from the department, availability and approval from CSU IP. Students interested in taking regular university courses in Chinese must demonstrate Chinese language proficiency by passing a Chinese Placement Test taken at the start of the semester.

Students in the CSU IP China Program are pre-approved to take 14 units to 20 units without submitting the General Petition Form. CSU IP cautions students from taking excessive units in a semester due to the heavy course load involved. If a student wishes to take more than 20 units, CSU IP approval is necessary and students must complete the General Petition Form.

Academic Culture

Many students find workload at PKU heavier than their home campuses. Instructors tend to be less interactive and require a lot of homework and memorization of Chinese characters. Many instructors do not have their own offices, so they arrange office hours in the classroom outside of lecture hours. They are accessible by email or in the hallway between classes. Grading primarily consists of attendance, homework, and exams. Students whose attendance falls below 75% percentage will not be credited with a grade in the course. There is usually no opportunity for make-up exams and assignments or extra credit work. Although students come from around the world, East and Southeast Asian students tend to be placed in higher level classes and European and American students in lower levels. It's common for students to form study groups and hire tutors. There are also language partnership opportunities that help enhance both learning and friendship between local and international students.

Grade and Unit Conversion

Below is the grade conversion that is used to convert grades earned at PKU to the CSU.

PKU Grade	CSU Grade
90-100	A
85-89	A-
81-84	B+
78-80	B
75-77	B-
72-74	C+
68-71	C
64-67	C-
60-63	D
Below 60	F

The CSU grade of WU (Withdrawal Unauthorized) may be given in some circumstances, e.g. for uncompleted courses. Refer to the Academic Guide for additional grade information.

Courses offered by the School of Chinese as a Second Language have a strict attendance policy. Students who do attend the number of required classes will not be permitted to take the final exam resulting in a failing grade.

Unit Conversion Guidelines

Below is the unit conversion that is used to convert PKU credits to CSU semester units.

PKU credits/hours	CSU units
10	10
8	8
6-7	6-7
5	5
4	4
2-3	2-3
1	1

To convert the value of CSU semester units into CSU quarter units, multiply the CSU semester units by 1.5.

Course Offerings: School of Chinese as a Second Language (SCSL)

Note that not all courses listed below are offered each year and are subject to change.

Proximate CSU unit values are listed in semester units next to the course title in parenthesis. Note that CSU units are based on the credit values assigned by PKU for courses offered and are subject to change if PKU makes changes to PKU credit values.

Courses are reported to CSU campuses using the titles in bold. Translated course titles as provided by PKU are given at the end of each course description.

Course Levels

Chinese language courses numbered 99 and below are lower division. Chinese language courses numbered 100 and above are upper division courses.

Chinese Language Courses

CHIN 40 Beginning Chinese (10)

This language course, with a focus on written Chinese, is for students at the beginner level. Students learn pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar of modern Chinese systematically. It focuses on the comprehensive training of students' listening, speaking, writing, and reading skills. Students learn about 500 new words and 50 grammar items. After this course, the students' language level should be equivalent to the HSK level 1. PKU course title in English is Elementary Intensive Chinese I.

CHIN 41 Beginning Spoken Chinese (10)

This course is an introduction to spoken Chinese. The class focuses on training students' speaking and listening skills. Students practice creating, repeating, and responding to phrases, words, and sentences that are taught in class. PKU course title in English is Elementary Spoken Chinese I.

CHIN 42 Lower Intermediate Written Chinese (8)

This language course is for students at the lower intermediate level. Students learn pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar of modern Chinese systematically. It focuses on the comprehensive training of students' listening, speaking, writing, and reading skills. Students learn about 1000 new words and 133 grammar items. After this course, the students' language level should be equivalent to the HSK level 3. PKU course title in English is Elementary Intensive Chinese II.

CHIN 44 Lower Intermediate Spoken Chinese (8)

This language course improves communication ability in spoken Chinese. There are about 15 students for each class. It builds speaking skills at the lower intermediate level, focusing on pronunciation and sentence patterns along with vocabulary building. The course covers the basic pronunciation and phonetics (pinyin) and of 500 words. Students give regular oral presentations and engage in oral drills under the guidance of the instructor. After this course, students can communicate with local Chinese people on the topics of daily life, can use some common words and sentences to express simple thoughts, or narrate the basic content of a story. The ratio of mistakes in syntax should be under 30%. PKU course title in English is Elementary Spoken Chinese II.

CHIN 52 Intermediate Spoken Chinese (8)

This language course improves students' communication ability in spoken Chinese. There are about 15 students for each class. It builds speaking skills at the lower intermediate level, focusing on pronunciation and sentence patterns along with vocabulary building. Students learn and master the basic pronunciation and phonetics (pinyin) and learn about 1000 words. Students give regular oral presentations and engage in oral drills under the guidance of the instructor. After this course, students can communicate with local Chinese people on the topics of daily life, can use some common words and sentences to express simple thoughts or narrate the basic content of a story. PKU course title in English is Elementary Spoken Chinese III.

CHIN 53 Intermediate Written Chinese (8)

This language course teaches pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar of modern Chinese systematically. It focuses on the training of students' reading and writing skills in Chinese and consequently improves students' communication ability. There are 2 levels according to the textbooks and the vocabulary. In this level, students learn about 3000 new words and 249 grammar items. After this course, the students' language level should be equivalent to the HSK level 4. PKU course title in English is Elementary Intensive Chinese III.

CHIN 101 Lower Advanced Written Chinese (8)

This is a compulsory language course. Students learn pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar of modern Chinese systematically. It focuses on the training of students' reading and writing skills in Chinese and consequently improves students' communication ability. PKU course title in English is Intermediate Intensive Chinese I.

CHIN 102 Lower Advanced Chinese Conversation (6)

This course improves communication ability in spoken Chinese. There are about 15 students for each class. There are 3 levels according to the textbooks and the vocabulary. Students learn 2000 new words in this level. After the course, students should be able to express themselves in Chinese at a normal speed. The expression in Chinese should be quite clear, accurate, and appropriate. Students are able to join some discussions on the general topics and have general business negotiation in Chinese. PKU course title in English is Intermediate Spoken Chinese I.

CHIN 108 Intermediate Advanced Written Chinese (8)

This is a compulsory language course that covers pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar of modern Chinese systematically. It focuses on the training of reading and writing skills in Chinese and consequently improves communication ability. There are 2 levels according to the textbooks and the vocabulary. The students learn about 5000 new words and 207 grammar items. PKU course title is Intermediate Intensive Chinese II.

CHIN 109 Intermediate Advanced Conversation (6)

This is a compulsory language course and the main goal is training students' communication ability in spoken Chinese. There are about 15 students for each class. There are 3 levels according to the textbooks and the vocabulary. Students learn 3000 new words in this level. After the course, students should be able to express themselves in Chinese at a normal speed. The expression in Chinese should be quite clear, accurate, and appropriate. Students are able to join some discussions on the general topics and have general business negotiation in Chinese. PKU course title is Intermediate Spoken Chinese II.

CHIN 110 Advanced Spoken Chinese I (6)

This course builds spoken skills on the foundation of the equivalent of two years of university-level Chinese study. Classes include lectures and discussions of texts with gradually increasing complexity of vocabulary, sentence structure, and textual material. Students learn nine lessons which include ordering food in a restaurant, Internet, and cars, to improve their language skills for dealing with various social settings. A quiz is given at each class with two homework assignments per week throughout the semester. Students give two presentations on a topic of their own choice in Chinese (8-10 minutes long). PKU course title in English is Intermediate Spoken Chinese III.

CHIN 111 Advanced Spoken Chinese II (6)

This course is for international students with intermediate Chinese skills who would like to further their understanding of Chinese society. The course covers scenarios that reflect Chinese daily life and native oral language. Classes involve lectures and discussion of texts with vocabulary, sentence structure, textual material of gradually increasing complexity. In addition to the textbook, the course covers idioms, proverbs, and slang. PKU course title in English is Advanced Spoken Chinese I.

CHIN 113 Advanced Spoken Chinese III (6)

This class emphasizes achieving a near-native level of proficiency in spoken Chinese. It is designed for students who have achieved a level of speaking beyond that of Chinese 111AB (or the equivalent of two or more years of university-level Chinese study) and who are preparing to enter regular university course work in Chinese. Classes consist of lectures and the discussion of texts while studying new vocabulary, sentence structures, and textual material of gradually increasing complexity. Students prepare daily for participation in class discussions and complete written and oral homework assignments and compositions. PKU course title in English is Advanced Spoken Chinese II.

CHIN 115 Advanced Written Chinese I (8)

This course builds reading and writing skills on the foundation of the equivalent of two years of university-level Chinese language study. It is designed for students who are progressing from intermediate to advanced level. New vocabulary is introduced in the textbook, but the sum of new words is not over 5000. The course consists of 14 units; each unit includes a text, new vocabulary, notes, grammar, and exercises based on the text. The topics read and discussed in class are taken from ordinary life in both China and the West, including family structure, private rights, relations between husband and wife, and physical fitness. PKU course title in English is Intermediate Intensive Chinese III.

CHIN 116 Advanced Written Chinese II (6)

This is a compulsory language course. Students learn pronunciation, vocabulary, grammar of modern Chinese systematically. It focuses on the training of students' reading and writing skills in Chinese and consequently improves students' communication ability. There are three levels for according to the textbooks and teaching pace. In level one, the students learn about 10000 new words and over 500 grammar items. After this course, the students' language level should be equivalent to the HSK level 5. PKU course title in English is Advanced Intensive Chinese I.

CHIN 117 Advanced Written Chinese III (6)

This is a compulsory language course. Students learn pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar of modern Chinese systematically. It focuses on the training of students' reading and writing in Chinese and consequently improves students' communication ability. There are three levels according to the textbooks and teaching pace. There are three levels according to the textbooks and teaching pace. After this course, the students' language level should be equivalent to the HSK level 6. PKU course title in English is Advanced Intensive Chinese II.

CHIN 119 Advanced Written Chinese IV (6)

This course continues Advanced Written Chinese III at a higher level. It continues the focus on building Chinese vocabulary by reading extracts of works by Chinese authors. It includes grammar lessons, Chinese phrases and proverbs, sentence structures, teacher explanations, and student practice. PKU course title in English is Advanced Intensive Chinese III.

CHIN 123 Advanced Spoken Chinese IV (6)

This language course improves communication ability in spoken Chinese. There are about 15 students for each class. After this level of courses, the students have good paragraph expression ability, are able to communicate with local people in Chinese fluently about general topics on social life, and express their thoughts and feelings in Chinese systematically and completely. It requires students to speak Chinese in standard pronunciation and tones and to use words correctly. The students learn how to use complicated vocabulary and sentences patterns. The main goal of the course is strengthen students' ability in using Chinese language and appropriate expressions. PKU course title in English is Advanced Spoken Chinese III.

Elective Courses in Chinese Language

Courses below are elective courses, and subject to change each semester.

CHIN 43 Lower Intermediate Listening (4)

This course is conducted in tandem with CHIN 42, Lower Intermediate Written Chinese, and focuses on building listening comprehension for students at the lower intermediate level. It uses tapes, dictation, multiple choice exercises, and other pedagogic methods to increase the students' ability to understand spoken Chinese. Students improve their listening ability through learning and repeating pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar. PKU course title in English is Elementary Chinese Listening.

CHIN 107 Chinese through Audio-Visual-Oral (4)

This course helps students to understand the Chinese people's daily life and Chinese culture through audio-visual-oral exercises. At the same time, it aims to comprehensively improve Chinese proficiency, especially in intercultural communication competence. The materials are from the popular comedy series "Home with Kids". There are 4 units including 24 lessons, each with video content of around 3–4 minutes. Each lesson is composed of 6 sections: warm up questions, text, glossary, grammatical points, cultural points, and practice exercises. The teaching method is a combination of classroom training and review with DVD, highlighting the characteristics of audio-visual-oral training, and focusing on helping students to improve their comprehension in intercultural communication competence. Assessment: midterm test and final. PKU course title in English is Audio-Video Chinese for Intermediate Learners.

CHIN 120 Intermediate Listening Chinese (2)

This course improves language skills and listening abilities with exercises in Chinese language. Main teaching content uses the advantages of multimedia presentation to study linguistic concepts and principles, and also trains students in intermediate level language skills. Textbooks, films, TV programs and songs are used in the class to improve students' listening skills. PKU course title in English is Intermediate Chinese Listening.

CHIN 122 Translation: English-Chinese (4)

This course concentrates on translating English into Chinese. Through translation practice, it systematically introduces translation skills, and the differences and similarities between English and Chinese through the translation of various sentence structures and patterns, phrases, passive and active voice in order to promote students' ability and accuracy in written Chinese expression. The course materials cover culture, communication, society, education, exercise, health, history, business, the environment, international relations, and entertainment. The course also enables students to gain a more comprehensive understanding of Chinese culture and society. PKU course title in English is English-Chinese Translation for Advanced Learners.

CHIN 126 Advanced Newspaper Chinese (4)

This course provides a great deal of reading materials in Chinese language; enables students to learn about Chinese economy, culture, law, and education; master Chinese newspaper reading skills; and expand Chinese knowledge and vocabulary. News themes-based lectures on different topics are given by the instructors. The instructors introduce the background knowledge of the news, vocabulary, and common structures and the students do exercises of reading comprehension. PKU course title in English is Advanced Reading of Newspapers and Periodicals.

CHIN 133 Chinese Culture (2)

There are 14 lectures with topics on different Chinese culture. Various teachers from the PKU School of Chinese as a Second Language give one lecture each. It aims to enable students to learn the history, culture, and current situation of China from various angles, and improve their Chinese language. PKU course title in English is Lectures on Chinese Culture.

CHIN 141 Intermediate Grammar (4)

This class reviews basic Chinese grammatical patterns and introduces complex patterns. There are intensive lectures on Chinese grammar coordinated with the textbook and in-class exercises and practice designed by the professor. PKU course title in English is Intermediate Chinese Grammar.

CHIN 141F Modern Function Words (4)

This course helps students master the use of main Chinese function words, grammar, and expressions. The course focuses on practical use of function words and little on theory. Main content: summarize usage of function words in four parts - adverbs (for example - also, again, as well as, too), preposition (make, by, about), conjunction (since, even, not only) and auxiliary words (Le, Zhe, Guo), and make it systematic. Through numerous exercises with the usage of function words in class and after class, with the teacher's explanations and comparisons, the students learn to use the main function words well. PKU course title in English is Function Words in Chinese.

CHIN 142 Intermediate Writing (4)

The goal of this course is to help students to practice Chinese characters, enlarge vocabulary, learn grammar, and improve writing capabilities. Teaching content includes texts, new vocabulary and grammar, and practical writing in different forms (excuse letter, notice, poster, letters in Chinese, illustration and depiction). The teacher guides students in learning texts, vocabulary, and grammar; writing exercises (constructing sentences with specified vocabulary, writing paragraphs, and group discussions) are assigned. Compositions with different themes (400-500 Chinese characters) are required and teacher gives review and analysis. PKU course title in English is Intermediate Writing.

CHIN 143 Classical Chinese (4)

This course studies frequent vocabulary, grammar and general cultural knowledge of classical Chinese; basic competency in reading classical Chinese literatures; and to further improve their ability in the application of written modern Chinese. Course includes mainly classical Chinese analects with the special learning of frequent vocabulary, sentence patterns, and general cultural knowledge on classical Chinese as supplements. Teacher's lecture in combination with students' reading, practice and discussion are the main teaching methods in the class. PKU course title in English is Ancient Chinese.

CHIN 147 Advanced Chinese Writing (4)

This course improves students' writing ability by reading and analyzing model essays in the following areas: practical writing (receipts, letters), descriptive and illustrative writing, argumentative writing, and narrative writing. It focuses on related vocabulary and grammar to improve the students' ability to correct sentence errors in written Chinese. Students expand their vocabulary, gain a better grasp of Chinese grammar and formal diction, and gain the ability to form a more logical structure for each type of composition. PKU course title in English is Advanced Writing.

CHIN 148 Intermediate Chinese Characters (4)

This course teaches the history of Chinese characters, the use of radicals, methods of guessing characters, and other intricacies of Chinese character writing. The course teaches more than 804 Chinese characters, including certain patterns in Chinese characters such as common sounds, meanings behind certain radicals, and how to guess at unknown characters through the use of tools taught in class. PKU course title in English is Chinese Characters and Words.

CHIN 149 Chinese Characters (4)

This course is a practical study of Chinese characters focuses on the history and evolution of Chinese characters, their origins, forms, and development, and their use in current written Chinese, together with the different uses of similar characters in different contexts. PKU course title in English is Elementary Chinese Characters and Words.

CHIN 151 Special Topics on Chinese History and Culture (4)

This course introduces the deep influences of Chinese history on Chinese culture, language, and the daily life of Chinese people. Through this course, students gain knowledge about Chinese culture while improving their level of language proficiency. The course is divided into 14 units, each one covering a period of history, from pre-history to the modern era. PKU course title in English is Chinese Cultural for Advanced Learners.

CHIN 153 Intermediate Pronunciation (2)

The purpose of this course is to correct pronunciation mistakes and train students in proper pronunciation; to help students understand pronunciation methods and practice; to enable students to form the correct pronunciation habit; and to standardize pronunciation. The main content includes the survey, analysis, and correction of pronunciation, reading aloud, and speaking aloud. Based on the teaching material, students practice, discuss, and watch films and TV shows in groups. PKU course title in English is Pronunciation.

CHIN 155 Chinese History (4)

This class is an introduction to Chinese history, taught with the understanding that it has greatly influenced the Chinese language and lifestyle. The course provides a deep background of historical knowledge, but also an understanding of the culture and traditions of China. At the same time, the course introduces a large amount of historical idioms and allusions for further understanding of course content. Through study and analysis, the course provides understanding of Chinese history, China's current state of affairs, and the core components of Chinese culture and tradition. This class is separated into several sections with twelve main topics of discussion: The Stage of Chinese History; The Dawn of Civilization; The Xia, Shang, and Xi Dynasties; The Spring and Autumn Period and the Warring States; Confucianism and Daoism; The Qin and Han Dynasties; The Three Kingdoms, Two Jins and the Northern and Southern Dynasties; Buddhism in China; The Sui and Tang Dynasties; The North and South Song; The Yuan, Ming, and Qing Dynasties; and From The Opium War until the May Fourth Movement. PKU course title in English is Chinese History.

CHIN 164 Chinese through Films (4)

Through watching Chinese films, the students can learn more about Chinese society and Chinese culture; learn the development and current situation of Chinese film industry; learn and use more advanced words and expressions; and improve listening comprehension and expression capability in Chinese. Students watch 6-7 contemporary Chinese films, mainly made and filmed in mainland China. The students are instructed by the teacher to read the materials, learn background information, new words, new sentence structure, and classical expressions in films. Discussions on social issues related to the films are led by the instructor. PKU course title in English is Learn Chinese with Films.

CHIN 172A Intermediate Business Chinese (4)

This course teaches Chinese language relevant to business and communication; to enable students to engage in simple business and trade activities such as visiting a company, inquiring and bargaining on prices, ordering goods, and processing insurance claims. The texts are about common business activities connected with international trade. Each course comprises two dialogs and one short text. The course uses a combination of the teacher's lectures and student's practice with a focus on oral expression capabilities. PKU course title in English is Business Chinese for Intermediate Learners.

CHIN 172B Advanced Business Chinese (4)

This course develops skills in listening comprehension, speaking, reading, and writing of Chinese for business activities, and deepens understanding of the economic life, society, and culture of China in relation to business. Teaching content includes company organizational structure; investment; recruiting and applying for a job; team work; product introduction; marketing; profit; advertising; customer service and trade negotiating. Emphasis is placed on teaching materials with complementary materials related to other business activities. The course includes discussion, simulated business dialogue, simulated business writing and other forms. Simulated business Chinese test reading, spoken Chinese language and writing examinations are offered to enhance students' use of Chinese language in daily life. PKU course title in English is Business Chinese for Advanced Learners.

Course Offerings: On China Series: English Instructed Courses

Since 2012, PKU has provided courses taught in English as a way to internationalize their university. In 2015, PKU launched the “On China Series – English Instructed Courses”. Most courses focus on Chinese-related issues from the areas of humanities, social sciences, economics and management and the natural sciences although other topics may be offered. Courses are open to both local and international students.

Intermediate and advanced Chinese language students who are enrolled in the SCSL Program may take up to six units (maximum) of “On China Series” courses provided that there are no time conflicts with SCSL courses (subject to course availability and meeting course prerequisites). Students are encouraged to discuss courses with CSU representatives at PKU to ensure that they have the academic background to take the course(s) and that there are no scheduling conflicts. Beginning Chinese language students are not permitted to take courses due to the heavy unit load.

Below is a sample listing of courses offered or click on their link to view courses: <http://dean.pku.edu.cn/englishcourses/>.

Offerings are subject to change each semester. Courses below are upper division.

E2833431 Corporate Finance (3)

This class involves the answers to three questions. First is the capital budgeting decision, which is about what long term investments should the firm take on. Second is the financing decision, which is about how can cash be raised for the required investment. Lastly, it examines short-term finance, concerns net working capital, and discusses the way the firm manage its day-to-day cash and financial affairs.

02535300 Business and Society in Modern China: An Institutional Perspective (2)

This course is designed to develop a basic understanding in Chinese economy. Taking new institutional theory as an intellectual framework, this course aims to introduce the decisions and performance of businesses in the greater social and political contexts in which they operate.

04331111 Chinese Folklore and Culture (2)

The purpose of this course is to introduce the Chinese people and their culture from perspectives of myths, folktales, festivals, traditional food, folk belief, folk arts and architectures. Within these topics, we will focus especially on some of the key concepts of Chinese culture such as history, safety, family, sacredness, gods, order, and so on.

02534380 Applied Economics (2)

This course provides you with a general understanding of the econometric modeling tools frequently used in the empirical economic studies. The topics covered include linear regressions and the selection of functional forms, heteroscedasticity and serial correlation, the basic and more advanced time series techniques, pooled cross-sectional and panel data models, models for binary choice and limited dependent variables, endogeneity and instrumental variable estimation, simultaneous equation models, etc.

02532730 Labor Economics (2)

This course focuses on topics in health economics and labor economics, including four specific aspects: 1) Understand health care system; 2) Understand topics in labor market; 3) Learn methods in academic research; and 4) Learn ways to analyze research topics.

06731020 China's Education and Cultural Foundations (2)

The course will create modules for international as well as domestic students who are interested in China's Education in historical context and comparative perspective. The course is devoted to China's education from antiquity to the contemporary time. The course aims to promote the mutual understanding of the nature of Chinese education and others in the way that upcoming participants learn from each other.

12730080 Environmental Issues and Policies in China (2)

The objective of this course is to help students understand the causes and consequences of, and solutions to these environmental issues, and enable them to make environmentally sound decisions in their daily life and their future career.

02133750 History of Modern Greece (2)

The aim of this course is to provide a deep understanding of the Greek reality from a social, economic, political and cultural perspective. It covers the period from the foundation of the Modern Greek State (1830) until today and examines the main historical events, including the civil war (1946-1949) and the military dictatorship (1967-1974), the debt crisis and the refugees' problem.

02432090 Chinese Perspectives on International and Global Affairs (3)

This undergraduate seminar course is designed to survey the major international relations topics of the People's Republic of China with a specific focus on the Chinese perspective. This course pays attention to the application of different international relations theories to the problems under study. The course also aims to familiarize students with China's involvement in world affairs from both historical and contemporary perspectives and equip students with an analytical understanding of the dynamics of China's foreign policy.

02432140 Chinese Politics and Public Policy (3)

This course is an introduction to undergraduate level students to explore contemporary political system of China, with a special focus on its policy making process. The emphasis is on China's political structure, state and society relations. This course aims to provide students with a background on major political events in modern China, and then to investigate the current political issues in China today—environmental civil society activity, problems and benefits associated with continuing economic liberalization, and discourse from within the CCP on political reform.

02132600 The Silk Road: A Global History (2)

This course provides a comprehensive introduction to the cultural and material exchanges among the major civilizations along the Silk Road. It covers the period between the 2nd and the 15th centuries CE, during which the forces wielded by the Persians, the Chinese, The Greeks, the Indians, the Arabs and the Mongols shaped the geopolitical landscape of the vast region that spreads from the Caspian Sea to the Gobi Desert. Students will explore the role of the Silk Road in the formation of the religious and ethnic identities of these civilizations, as well as their perceptions towards one other. Through the study of refreshing and up-to-date visual and course readings, the students will explore cross-cultural phenomenon such as Sogdian burial practice, Arab accounts of Tang China, Nestorian Christianity at the Mongol court, and influence of Marco Polo in the Latin West. The course will begin and conclude with discussion of the contemporary significance of the Silk Road as a historical category.

06239124 Chinese Economy (3)

This course intends to introduce to students the key features of China's economic reform and development from 1978. It starts with a discussion of the pre-reform Chinese economic system and then explains the logic of the reform policies. It compares the reform strategy that China adopted with those in other transition economies. It then reviews the main policies and development in specific areas such as agriculture, manufacturing, international trade, labor market, financial sector, etc. Students should gain sound knowledge about China's reform policy, reasons for economic success, challenges and risks facing the economy and some options going forward.

01834100 China and Media Matters (2)

This course offers an overview of journalism and communications to be presented by a veteran China watcher and foreign correspondent who will share first-hand experiences and unique perspectives. The class will analyze distinctive features and impact of various media: print, TV, radio, online media, social media, blogs, and podcasting. It will look into the role of the media and the impact of technological innovation in the way news is presented and consumed, while seeking to find out how all these are different or similar in China compared to other countries. The class will also look at how China is projecting its image overseas and how it is perceived in and outside China through the prism of the media.

02132590 History of Sino-European Relations (3)

This course aims to attribute a balanced historical position to the role played by Sino-European relations in these crucial passages. It attempts to reach an accurate assessment of this relationship by analyzing the development of bilateral relations within the complex framework of the Cold war structure and the superpowers dominion within it. Therefore, it looks at the bilateral relations between China and the individual European countries not simply per se but as a segment of a complex matrix of relations ordered by the hierarchy imposed by the superpower's hegemony. An objective historical evaluation of the function that these segments produced in the transformation of the Cold War hierarchies has yet to come. This course aims to fill this gap by providing PKU undergraduate students with a unique analytical tool to decipher the evolution of Sino-European relations from the Cold War until today. A special attention will be given to the current evolution of Sino-European relations within the framework of the Belt and Road Initiative launched by President Xi Jinping at the end of 2013.

02333180 Comparison between Eastern and Western Philosophy (2)

With the rise of China over the past generation we have witnessed a sea change in the economic and political order of the world. The G8 has become the G20 and GDP in the region has grown by 400%. What are the implications of this dramatic sea change for the world cultural order? Will Chinese culture make a difference over the next generation, and if so, what does it have on offer? Economic and political change is relatively easy to track, but how do we assess cultural change? How do we make responsible cultural comparisons between China and contemporary Western liberal assumptions?

02432230 China and International Organizations (3)

This course will help students to gain a general understanding of the origin, mission, structure and behavior of major international organizations, and the role of China in these IOs. After successfully completing this, students are expected to Understand the origin and development of major international organizations; how major international organizations contribute to world peace and prosperity; how China's role changes in these IOs in the past decades; the role of China in the reform of the current system of international organizations.

02830230 Doing Business with Chinese People (3)

This course presents important topics of doing business with the Chinese people. The course covers concepts, theories, research results, and successful management stories related to this domain. Because this is a special field without any textbook with good coverage of core content, this class uses materials that are interesting, relevant, and academically rigorous from all kinds of publications.

02838130 Chinese Society and Business Culture (2)

This course explores key features of Chinese society and their implications to Chinese business culture. It begins with a comparative analysis about the structural differences between the Chinese and Western societies and moves on to discuss the social, economic, and cultural implications of such differences. After establishing basic analytical perspectives, we will focus on Chinese business culture and explores emerging patterns in areas like market ecology, labor processes, retailing and consumer behaviors, work relations and management. We will adopt an interdisciplinary perspective and analyze Chinese society and culture using concepts and theories from various social science disciplines (e.g., sociology, economics, psychology, philosophy, and political science). Our purposes are to understand the unique features of Chinese society and business culture on the one hand, and to develop a board theoretical perspective for cross-cultural analyses on the other. Therefore, this class can also serve as a general social science course.

04630901 Public Economics in the U.S. and China (2)

Students should understand the following: Situations in which markets will fail to achieve efficient outcomes; possible government remedies for market failures; Techniques for evaluating the success of selected government policies; and challenges inherent in designing successful government policies.

06238090 Introduction to Economic Growth (3)

This course will provide undergraduate students with a systematic review of economic principles, analytical frameworks, and empirical findings in literature that are essential to a comprehensive understanding of economic growth in general, and especially of China's growth dynamics as a major focus. Drawing upon the materials from growth textbooks and literature, this course will walk students through a tour of what has happened across nations in terms of population, income, and wealth before and after the Industrial Revolution. This will be followed by a series of lectures to enquire economic principles, growth frameworks, and empirical investigations of direct determinants and fundamental conditions for the growth observations. This course is intended to help students set a sound economic perspective coupled with basic economic skills in order to better assess public and private choices in resource allocations for greater and sustainable economic growth in China and the world.

12639080 Garden City's Practice in China (3)

This course is opened for any student with interesting in Garden City, who will be trained to understand the real history of Garden City Movement, its origin, developing stages, current situation and future trend, as well as to master the real idea of Garden City movement, which provides benefit professional civilization elements for their future work.

12730020 Our Changing Planet (2)

This course is offered to undergraduate students in Peking University who have interests to understand history, source, current understanding of formation mechanisms, and health impacts of air pollution in China. We will also discuss the major environmental issues due to anthropogenic activities on a global scale including land, ocean, and atmosphere. The global issues include ocean acidification, global warming, ozone depletion etc. Environmental Science is fundamentally an interdisciplinary science, which involves interactions among atmosphere, hydrosphere, lithosphere, and biosphere. This course will introduce basic concepts and fundamental knowledge of atmosphere and ocean to the students, including the composition and vertical structure, and atmospheric and ocean circulation.

12730070 China's Energy and Environmental Challenges (2)

The focus of this undergraduate course is energy, the driving force of the development of the global economy and our society. China is the world's second largest economy, the world's largest consumer of coal, the second largest consumer of oil, and the world's largest emitter of CO₂. Rapid economic development after China's reform and opening up alters the global energy structure and leads great environmental challenges. The course is structured for a broad, brief exposure to energy fundamentals, covering both the non-renewable (fossil fuel and nuclear) and renewable (solar, wind, hydro-, and bio-) energy technologies, the historical shifts of energy sectors (production, demand, imports, exports, and prices), and the energy-pollution-climate connections. It aims to help students develop a working knowledge about the energy economy and the sound policymaking, to understand the global changes, and to encourage intellectual thinking of sustainable development. This course also includes two field trips, during which students will have real-world exposure to renewable energy facilities and air quality monitoring stations in China.

Course Offerings: Regular University Courses

Undergraduate course offerings (in Mandarin and English) can be found on the PKU website at <http://dean.pku.edu.cn/pkudean/course/kcb.php?ll=1>. Some departments and schools offer a few courses in English which can be found at <http://dean.pku.edu.cn/englishcourses/>. Offerings and availability vary widely from semester to semester, and many courses do not appear on the department webpage listings. Departments post printouts showing current courses at the beginning of each semester. This information will be provided through the study center before the semester starts. Hard copies will be provided by the study center during on-site orientation.

Note that course schedules are subject to change each semester. Course descriptions for each course are available on the links provided above but syllabi are not available until the first class of that course.

For questions about the university, courses and registration, contact Ms. Zou (Molly) Jing at eap.zoujing@gmail.com.